Bio:

Marco has a cheerful nature and an outgoing personality, and loves to ham it up for friends and family with his chatty nature always ready for a conversation starter. He is incredibly active and loves an adventure, keeping up with children much older than himself as he climbs, rides his two-wheeler bike at lightning speed, runs, and plays soccer! Marco loves animals and LEGO, but most of all diggers, cranes, and anything related to construction. He also draws prolifically and well beyond his years. His constantly inquisitive nature is infectious, and his questions about the universe and how things work lead us to wonder if he's a budding engineer.
